I've got a few fairly well-known alts roaming around, but they're pretty inactive.Most of them were me experimenting with how the forums would fit and react to different personality types, and then I usually drop them. If some irl sibling squads are in fact alts, props to them because from what I can see a lot of them are fairly active. Y'all must have a lot of free time to commit that much to being someone else. I know I don't.

Yeah like I saw one time where a person and their cousin had the exact same signature (with different names of course) and the same colors to match it. It's really annoying sometimes. And then there is someone (not any of you of course) that is really bad at hiding who they are (my self included). They put on different personalities that you can easily see through.

why are uppercase and lowercase letters a thing? why don't we just write in all caps or all lc.? it's basically just western languages that do this? is this another relic of our eurocentric mentality and world? if so, i reject this way of life

We're not the same person. It's just...that we are really close. We've been through a lot together. I started this account after our sister died a month ago. And we needed to be able to trust each other. Also I made the account for him so...

And can you please not accuse me of that?

Pluto, I didn't mean anything by you, you two are just the closest to relevant to this topic I can think of. Also just pointing out that I don't trust my twin as much as you clearly do with Nacho. Sorry to hear about your sister.

Marx and I are sisters and I wouldn't dare even try getting into her account. I introduced Piranha to Wings of Fire and then she joined the forums a bit later because I kept going on them.

Yea I'm irl friends with Prim and Falcon. I know, most people consider it weird that I have TWO irl friends, but were all real. Falcon doesn't really post AS much on the forums, and basically only on GGAD. Prim and I both started at the same time because we found it together. Falcon, Prim and I are all classmates irl. (We were all in a 'Wings of Fire' book club where we just lazed around and did nothing lol.) All of us just started using this website so that we could use the chat when we aren't allowed to talk during class. Then we got wrapped up in the forums. None of us are remotely related, we're just friends, so people have never accused us of being the same person. I mean, I'm an only child, Prim has some half-siblings who (I don't think) have ever lived with her, and Falcon has an older brother who she will probably never let on to the forums.

I agree.

I remember that there were multiple cases in which one forumer pretended to be someone else on a different account. As Hiraeth has mentioned before, one year on WoF, there was a person called Dragonfly. Dragonfly also apparently had a cousin who was on here as well, and this cousin made multiple threats and demands towards the rest of the forumers. We eventually found out that Dragonfly and her cousin were the same person.

Later, we had a prominent forumer called Hurricane. We all trusted her and believe her to be part of this family, but then one day we recieved the news that she had been in a car accident. The person who brought us this news was her sister, and so of course, we believed it. We accepted her sister into our family. And then we found out that her "sister" had lied to us-because her sister was Hurricane, and Hurricane had never been in a car accident.

I'm not telling all of you guys to never trust anyone online, but I am telling you to exercise more suspicion to people than you would in real life. Because in the real world, you can see the people that you talk to. Online, you could be talking to anyone.
